

HOW TO CATCH A T&E THIEF

CONCUR TECHNOLOGIES INC., a vendor of expense management software, has teamed up with ACL Services Ltd. to launch a module designed to detect travel and entertainment expense fraud. The new transaction assessment module will use ACL's audit and data analysis technology.

Elena Donio, Concur's vice president of marketing, says the module contains four different queries that companies can run in many permutations to screen for fraud. "It allows customers to do much more comprehensive trending and pattern analysis," she says. She describes the module's cost as "nominal."

John Van Decker, an analyst at Meta Group, describes ACL as the "premier data audit firm." The combined efforts of Concur and ACL will let users "identify holes in the financial management process," he says.
